HERE'S just no suiting some folks' taste. No matter how hard one tries to please, there's always somebody who thinks the new pattern is all wrong and tries to make everybody else miserable and dissatisfied, too. Not so very long ago everybody was up in arms about the dreadful high heels and long, tight such complicated and important problems they will not tolerate being snickered at. Ridicule is the Achilles heel of every girl as well as of every boy. It is therefore doubtful if the new fashions will be very rapidly adopted by the young girls of this country, although modified models may eventually creep into the late winter fashions for Miss America. skirts that the girls were wearing. They talked at great length about the awful waste of time that girls put into doing up their hair in complicated puffs and Oklahoma Playground Head rolls, and they deplored the ridiculous hobble walk which the girls affected. The generation before that one had to contend with a great mass of criticism about their long, full skirts which swent up all sorts of microbes. Before them were the girls of the great full sleeves and the bustle and so on, clear back beyond the hoop-skirt stage.

Girls have always had criticism of the District before going on to Phila-Girls have aiways had criticism of their dress and, up to the very present day, through each of the preceding generations those who have tried conscientiously to give really constructive criticism of this everpresent subject have strongly advocated shorter, comerciately full skirts, sufficiently large, flat-heeled shoes, simple hair dressing and no corsets. Yet now, when the girls' dress of today is exactly the complete product of all those much hammered-in suggestions, there are still people who are not-satisfied and are inconsistent enough to advocate returning to some of the previous horrors of the feminine wardrobe.

IS it any wonder that girls have finally revolted and have decided to please themselves exclusively? It is constantly yet feebly suggested in various fashion periodicals that American women and girls will really take up the styles which Paris has already been waring for a couple of years, which include the ankle-length skirt and the high-necked walst, with the type of collar that has to be boned to be held in place under the ears. The colonial pump, with its inevitable accompaniment, the high length skirt and the new styles of hir dressing which are said to be used in Paris suggest nothing so much as pictures of motion-picture stars demonstrating how they get their hair out of the way in order to get the best possible results in applying facility adapting these variegated methods, which if had to work out to keep the best possible results in applying facility and the new stays demonstrating how they get their hair out of the way in order to get the latest possible results in applying facility adapting these variegated methods, which I had to work out to keep the best possible results in applying facility adapting these variegated methods, which I had to work out to keep the best possible results in applying facility and the new stays demonstrating how they get their hair out of the way in order to get the latest thing in footgear and the new stays demonstrating how they get their hair out of the way in order to get the latest thing in footgear and the new stays demonstrating how they get their hair out of the way in order to get the latest thing in footgear and the new stays demonstrating how they get their hair out of the way in order to get the latest thing in footgear and the new stays demonstrating how they get their hair out of the way in order to get the latest the proposition of the general proposition o

It may be that the French girl, who has always been noted or her chic rather than her actual beauty of face, may be able to "get away with it" and make a success of this most trying way of doing the hair, but a large and assorded variety of shocks is due the American public if the majority of girls in their present, unmodified versions.

The poet has often sung through the various ages of poetical history of the dainty little shell-like ear of his lady love. Today, however, especially in America, many ladies' cars have a distinct outstanding quality that makes one think of the old fairy tale when Red Riding Hood asked her supposed grandma what she had such big ears for and the sly old wolf replied. "The better to hear with, my child." No, the poet of today is in for disillusionment, we fear, and his verse, which might very aptly be titled "A Marvelous Sight." will run something like "What do I discover?"

The Flapper Speaks. I am a little flapper girl— Hair all bobbed in soft, short curl; Socks rolled down and match my suit And the straps upon my boot.

I can fling just lovely glances At the cakecater that prances Up and down the thoroughfares, Showing that he has no cares. Spitl for me he's little chern; He's too weak to do much harm.

I prefer to talk with men Who have sense; but nine in ten Of them never would request That you take them as your guest.

I am not quite what I seem, And you often find a gleam Of some things that will surprise You if you do not close your eyes And allow yourself to be Narrow-minded about me.

Future years will find me blest With the power to take the best Of whatever comes my way; I learn more of this each day.

NAMES FOR GIRLS And What They Mean

WELL-BALANCED name for a girl is Florence, which suggests dainty feminine qualities and has charming abbreviations such as Flo. Florinda, Flossie, Florette and Flore. The original form of the name is, of course, Flora, which in the Latin means flower. Flora was the goddess of the spring and was worshipped by the ancients. The saints' calendar shows a St. Flora. The name Florence, likewise, means "goddess," and the rose gyranium is the lower for her symbol. The name

Department Commander Patterson announces the following calendar for the coming week: Tuesday evening, ladies' auxiliaries will hold a lawn social on the campus at department headquarters, 921 Pennsylvania avenue southeast. Department band will furnish music. Regular muster of Miles Camp in Perpetual Hall. Wednesday night, Urell Camp and Urell Auxiliary in Pythian Temple. Thursday night muster of Harden Camp in Pythian Temple and Lawton Camp in Perpetual Hall.

The first session of the council of administration was held at department headquarters Wednesday evening. The welfare committee, of which Commander Huhn of Harden Camp is chairman, formulated plans for a big show during September for the purpose of raising funds to carry out the plans for the work to be done on the new soldiers' and sailors' temporary home, formerly the old Naval Hospital, 921 Pennsylvania avenue southeast. At the muster of the Lineal Society held Wednesday evening, several new candidates were taken in. Mrs. Kate Lawson reported the grab bag and lawn fete as held at department headquarters grounds as a splendid social and financial success, part of the proceeds going for the supply of a room at the new soldiers' and sailors' temporary home, 921 Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

BALTIMORE, August 12.—Not more than one child in ten, under "moderately favorable conditions," is without musical talent.

This is the conclusion of Thomas L. Gibson, state supervisor of music, after two years' experience with supervised musical training in Maryland schools. Mr. Gibson has summarized the activities of the last year, which he is embodying in a report to Albert S. Cook, state superintendent of education.

TOURISTS REACH ZEEBRUGGE.

Word has been received here that the S. S. Osterley (12.000 tons) of the Orient Steam Navigation Company has arrived at Zeebrugge from New York with a group of American tourists. They will visit the sites of the intrepid raid at Zeebrugge on St. George's day, 1918, and the Osterley herself will be moored along the ever-glorious mole. Many souvenirs of the raid and of the German occupation have been preserved on the mole and visitors on arrival received a booklet describing the fight and its incidents.
